In response to applicant's filing dated April 13, 2004. The following action is taken:

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, and 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Okada et al (6249495) in view of the admitted prior art.

The primary reference discloses an optical disk reading apparatus wherein a head is driven in the radial direction of the disk (101f and the PICK UP), the reference further shows the use of a tracking and focusing control of an objective lens 101b-101d, static acceleration detection means based on the head movement 318 and 319 and controlling the slider based on the acceleration signal 308 and 307. However the reference does not explicitly disclose driving the slider based on the low frequency component of a tracking signal. The admitted prior art disclose the use of a low frequency component of a tracking signal in driving the slider in order to fine tracking on the disk as acknowledged by applicant.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the teachings of the admitted prior art and modify the primary reference. Such modification is well established in the art and called for in the primary reference (element 310) for the purpose of fine tracking. Thus one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to use the teachings of the admitted prior art for the purpose of fine tracking.

With respect to the limitations of claims 2, 4 and 5 see fig 15 wherein the positive and negative signals predicated on the radial direction is well established in the art.

Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

None of the cited prior art shows the use of a LPF and gain circuit as claimed.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. 6791915 and 6044050.
